52ND SEASON

August 1998

On behalf of the Hartwick College Summer Music Festival & Institute administration, I extend warm greetings to all.

The 52nd season can be described as a time of extraordinary music making coupled with wonderful fellowship. We have indeed launched into a new era of artistic excellence and our program has taken on the characteristics that personify a true summer music festival. The 52nd season was marked by an incredible number of special events. Some of the most memorable moments of the summer, listed in chronological order, included:

A two-week residency and concert with Erez Ofer, concertmaster of the Philadelphia Orchestra; performances by the Hartwick Trio with our two new faculty members from the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra, Craig Mumm and Mary Ann Mumm; the Fourth of July celebration with the Bulldog Brass Society; the master class with the international flute soloist, Linda Chesis; the residency and concert with the Western Wind Vocal Ensemble; the Chamber Orchestra performance of the Mozart Symphonie Concertante with Erez Ofer and Craig Mumm; Chien Kwan Lin's performance of Karel Husa's Saxophone Concerto with the Symphonic Band; the Mike Holober Jazz Quintet residency and concert; the workshop at Hartwick and performance at Cooperstown of Virgil Thomson's The Mother of Us All, with the Glimmerglass Opera; the special Chamber Orchestra performance of various trumpet concertos with Fred Mills and the Bulldog Brass Society trumpet players; the Bulldog Brass Society and Festival Jazz Ensemble performances at the Bellayre Music Festival; the History of Violin Making Workshop with Robert Young; the two-week residency of the Girls Choir of Harlem; the master classes, workshops, sonata concert, Brass Spectacular '98 Concert, and concertos with our performing ensembles with festival brass players Tim Morrison, Fred Mills, Thomas Bacon, Larry Zalkind, and Dan Perantoni; the Un-Master Class with William Westney; the master classes of Jeffrey Khaner, principal flutist of the of the Philadelphia Orchestra, Lorna Myers of the Metropolitan Opera; the trip to Saratoga to hear Andre Watts, Frederica von Stade and the Philadelphia Orchestra; performances of the works of our eminent composer-in-residence, Karel Husa; and the two opera scenes productions and the performance of the newly discovered Mozart work for violin, viola, and cello performed by the Chamber Orchestra with three string players from the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra.

Of course, all weekend concerts and many recitals were very special and exhibited a high degree of musicianship by all of you! Once again, HCSMF&I has proved to consist of more than the art of making music—in the lasting friendships made among students, counselors, and faculty.

To all who have taken part in the 1998 Hartwick College Summer Music Festival & Institute program, I offer my sincere congratulations and best wishes for a productive year.

Sincerely,

Steven T. Zvengrowski

2nd floor VanEss
by Debbie Harrison and Jen Willis

In a decrepit old dorm, with ivy-covered walls,
Lived thirty-something girls – on both sides of the halls
At ten o'clock on a typical night
From patio time the girls took flight.
If with these rules they didn't comply,
The punishment was simple: dormed or die!
Into the bathroom they filed every night,
To do their routine at the speed of light.
At ten twenty-five, precisely on the dot....
The drill sergeant counselors sternly took their spot.
Five, four!...all the way to one,
The quarterback voices boomed and caused the girls to run.
The bathroom closed, but the counselors not through
Getting us to bed left a lot more to do.
Oh, sweet confused Ashley! She awaited certain doom,
For each night she was found in someone else's room.
Debbie narrowly escaped a horrendous fate,
For every night it seemed she slipped in late.
The hairbrush song and a birthday-a-day
Made second floor VanEss an exciting place to stay.
But despite the endless hyper laughter,
VanEss was infamous for disaster.
Thanks to peculiar injuries in the dorm,
emergency room visits were quite the norm.
Lacking homemaker's skill and grace,
Jen missed the sweater and ironed her face!
Kavitha fell victim in the middle of the night,
When she was attacked by an aggressive light.
Poor Sabrina—vicious clams! And those stairs—look out Jane!
It's a wonder our counselors never went insane.
We know we've pushed the limits with these stupid cheesy rhymes,
But honestly, together, we've had the best of times.

Institute Conducting by Bethany Einschlag

First session Institute Conducting took off with Maestro Schneider teaching us the basics. After a slew of the dropping and adding that always takes place at the beginning of the session, we had a class of five, including the illustrious J.D.Gersen. We studied Mozart's 36th Symphony ("so, Bethany, did you do your harmonic analysis yet?") in preparation for a run-through with the chamber orchestra. The highlights of the session, however, were our discussions with the Maestro about his conducting experiences, which range from studying with Ferrara and Markovich to conducting West Side Story to the Ice Capades. Our hopes rose and fell, also in support of J.D., the faculty kazoo band, in fact, employed Maestro Domingos to conduct their premiere performance. With the changing of sessions, J.D., Megan, Andy, and I ventured into the twilight zone: band conducting with Dr.Wilson (doo-doo, doo...). The four of us, joined by our resident trombonists Andy and John, learned techniques from the pros by doing Fred Fennell's calisthenics every morning. Highlights of the class this session were definitely the papers in Doc's office—you can ask John to read you the tuning flow chart outside his room! We studied Hanson's Second Symphony and stepped up to the festival band podium (can't we conduct Zion?) on Thursday morning. Finally came the long-anticipated arrival of Dr. Robert Swift to teach us the art of choral conducting. J.D., Andy, and John left us, and a cozy little class of three remains. Now, as I write this, you can bet that my classmates are diligently preparing festival choir warm-ups and studying the selections we chose for the madrigal choir. We have been rehearsing with them for several days, (not more Jewish music!), and with the help and confidence of Dr.Swift, are anxiously preparing for our conducting debuts which will take place on the Wednesday night recital. As a conducting student, I found this summer very enjoyable. We have studied under three masters in the field, and definitely earned our college credit and some valuable insights to last us a lifetime.

The Opera Studies Program

By: Lisa Donnelly and Meredith Hoffman-Thompson

The third session of the 1998 HCSMF&I season brought upon many new things. Among them was the Opera Studies Program. This program was offered to those who wanted to focus their third session on opera singing. After sending in audition tapes and being assigned roles the program started. Thomas Holiday, the director of numerous opera companies including Opera Colorado, was the director of the program. The pianist and musical coach of the program was Ruth "Sissy" Baker, the musical director of Opera Colorado. The program was an all day program which started at 8:30 in the morning and continued throughout the whole day. The morning class was an acting and emotional/musical interpretations class. One hour each day was spent in an Opera History class. In this class the students studied everything from Classical Opera to modern day opera by viewing opera scenes and learning about operatic composers and backround. Throughout the day scene rehearsals went on where staging, and musical coaching occurred. The performances were split into two nights. The first night, Monday, August 3, went from opera scenes with where silly to those which were sublime. These eleven performance with help from the musical theatre class as the chorus put on a spectacular show. The scenes ranged from P.D.Q. Bach's "The Stoned Guest" to Delibe's "Lakme". After another week of scene preparation, the second production was performed that Friday. This night consisted of scenes from, Boys From Syracuse, The Magic Flute and Mikado. The opera program has been a learning experience for all who participated. It was a time well spent for all. The Opera Studies Program was a glimpse of the future for aspiring opera singers.

Beginning Sightsinging

Students, CITs, counselors, and faculty alike come to Hartwick for musical education while enjoying their summers in a friendly, stress-free environment. However, there is an important issue that must be addressed concerning the health of the students in one of the morning classes. The excitement level in the beginner sightsinging class has risen far above the normal threshold level. In fact, if the paramedics have to drive to the Hartwick campus one more time to perform emergency procedures or a student who had passed out from the sheer intensement of the sightsinging class, Dr.Z. may have to open up an emergency ward on this campus. Seriously, though, the class is musically beneficial, even though it can be somewhat dreary at times. Aaron Kaplan teaches the class very effectively by patiantly demonstrating how to sightsing the correct rhythms and notes while keeping good pitch. The sightsinging class provides students with the most important basic musical skills. Such examples are interval identification, melodic and rhythmic dictation, and solfege. The class is at 9:00am so there is generally a lack of real enthusiasm and there are normally many yawning faces, however, it includes musical ideas that are very important whether you are a classical violinist, a jazz trumpeter, or an opera singer. In other words sightsinging is a must in order to perform music with greater skill and move on to more difficult concepts. The class should definitely be strongly considered when preparing your schedules at Hartwick.

Vocal Jazz by Cara Schweller

Vocal Jazz this year was a time to let go. Jazz gives us a chance to truly show our inner selves and communicate through music. Through scat singings, solos, and songs, vocal jazz let people be truly free and independent as jazz artists and singers. Jazz is all about having fun and not worrying about how it sounds, but letting the spirit of jazz come out of you through singing.

Chamber Choir by Jen Lucia and Erica Weiss

We had grand ol' time in Chamber Choir this season. We had an opportunity to work with 3 talented conductors, who each brought their own "flare" to the ensemble. First session, Mr.Richard Bell brought with him a variety of fun pieces, including two African folk songs. Second session, Mr.Sean Wallace returned to HCSMF&I, and classical pieces in a variety of languages, as well as, a gospel piece called "City Called Heaven." Dr. "Bob" returned again this season, and brought back his usual enthusiasm and spirit. From dancing around the room to his crazy jokes, Dr. Bob is always able to put a smile on your face. Third session we sang many traditional chamber songs, as well as a "Porgy and Bess" medly, and a Jamaican song called "Turn the World Around." Overall, this season of Chamber Choir has been a great success. The diversity of the music as well as the conductors helped us all to grow as musicians.

Beginning Theory by Joe DiStefano

Wow! Beginning Theory with Mike VanBuren. Who ever thought that theory could be so much fun? Sitting through six weeks of Mike's class was quite a challenge...oops, I mean the class was challenging. Learning about seventh chords and writing our own chorales, what could get any better?

Festival Band by Joe DiStefano

Festival Band has been one challenge after another. First session with Hal Janks, "Carmina Burana" and "Scenes From the Louvre" went very well. Second session, with Brian Wilson, the woodwinds got a workout playing the runs in Tchaikovsky's "Dance of the Jesters," we played "Do not go Gentle into that Good Night," and we enjoyed "Euphory" from "the Magic Potion." We finished up the session with "Zion" and Hanson's "Symphony #2," and moved on to the third session with Rodney Winther. We began with a tribute to Morton Gould, performing "American Salute" and "Symphony for Band." And for the final concert, we made our way through the rhythms in Husa's "Les Coulers Fauves," followed by Ginastera's "Danza Final." It was a great summer of band, lots of fun for all!

3rd Floor Smith Women
by Katie Bloomshield and Laura Wenninger

Theme: Cosmic Girls! Hidden theme: James Wong! The last six weeks have been well...(think of your own word). The 1st session: I didn't even know Laura during the first session, but there was a lot of meeting new people and such anyway! I found it very exciting to be on the 3rd floor, because this is the first time I was on the third floor in the five years I've been coming here! During this session many things happened especially with the jazz program. How did this affect the 3rd floor girls of Smith? Some of us were not even touched emotionally. Others were to the point where they were thinking about leaving. But all the same, the James Wong girls—oops, I mean the Cosmic Girls, pulled through it! However, it was much harder to pull through our surprise attack from the HCSMF&I and Militia one night! Some were quiet and didn't fare move, but others (the not so lucky ones) were not so well behaved, and I know personally, the pain of being shot by Geno Carr with a squirt gun. The second session people came in wiping away a very hard goodbye to the 1st session. After all of my group of friends had left, I met Laura. Both our friends had left and we "found" each other during our morning. Many peopole know the terror that led on in our friendship, and I am very sorry to all those who we trampled when we had our first water fight. I know that one of our favorite times during this session was when we had 2 fire drills at the crack of dawn. The closing session, so sad. These past six weeks have been so great! Floor bonding with ice cream and movies and 3rd floor guys! Red lights and yellow lights, and mostly green lights I hope! Hope to see you next year! James Wong rocks like yo momma!

3rd Floor VanEss Women by Jennifer Jaquet

When we arrived here we were informed that we were the oldest girls in camp. This gave us certain privleges that other campers couldn't even dream of acquiring. About 3/4s of us had an hour extra "patio time" before curfew. This meant that some of us were privleged enough to socialize with the senior boys and CITs (oooh, aaah!). During the first week our floor theme was Heavenly Bodies. But we soon grew sick of the dehumanizing and degrading implications that Heavenly Bodies symbolized. So we changed our floor theme to cheese. You know; the yellow, fattening stuff that slowly clogs your arteries. So with our new floor theme to liberate us we found ourselves with a new problem; the choice of cheesecake of the week. Cat fights and brawls broke out over who should be rewarded with a WalMart cheesecake. We tried to avoid these fights by enjoying fun bonding nights. On such occasions we were found watching movies and playing a very competitive scavenger hunt. However, our floor, as a whole, is one that is made up of beautiful, intelligent and talented young women. We represent members of all instrumental and vocal groups. Many of us have achieved solos and /or participated in student recitals. We had great counselors and made close friends within our floor. We hope to be remembered for our talent and friendly personalities.

2nd Floor Smith Men by Eric Fuhrman

It is common knowledge that England and its people are quite inferior in the scope of life and thus it was only logical for Senior Counselor James O'Sullivan to dedicate our floor to the decline of the British Empire. With rooms representing everything from Mad Cow Disease to Hugh Grant to the Spice Girls, the second floor boys side of Smith reminded us why we are all proud to be American (or Irish) Counselors. Mike Dobranski and Jeff Dudzick did a great job in aiding James. Andy Meager was also on our floor. Evan Cobb, James Rosen, Brian Connolly and I were the CITs and hosted many Nintendo 64 parties for the first three weeks until Evan's TV blew out. Some activities included Jerry Springer night and running the gauntlet through counselor Mike. Other "movie" nights were also held on our floor throughout the summer. Congratulations to Angela Fenwick, Susannah Stayter, and Amy Appel for a great guest lights out. And can we have one last hand for Joe DiStefano?

4th Floor Smith
by Margaret Okada and Lisa Donnelly

Deep in the 100 acre wood, small girls run amok on the floor. You may see a few with their colorful brassieres on the outside of their shirts or hear their giddy laughter. Often they're found dancing around wildly with the CITs and counselors or having a food fest in the hallway. This rare species of children like to discuss their opinions on the males of HCSMF&I. They partake in group activities such as artwork, reading, and eating. They often gab like chickens do, but when angry at each other, do not talk at all. Other bonding activities include water fights and the celebration of birthdays with cake and M&Ms. When venturing out in the hundred acre wood, most are surprised with the myriad of faces and personalities but usually leave with a smile of their face. The counselors of this floor of fun & funny are led by Susan Kenderdine, senior counselor otherwise known as Christopher Robin. The three other counselors on the floor are Lisa Grimmer (Piglet), Luci Johnson (Tigger), and Tiffany Zarker. The CITs consist of Lisa Donnelly (the owl), Jordanna Rock Garden (Eeyore), Meredith Hoffman-Thompson (Kanga), Margaret Okada (Roo), Ariel Templeton (Rabbit) and Janie Grover (Gofer). Even though eadch resident of the 100 acre woods are all different we will never forget the splendiferous summer we had.

Institute Madrigal Ensemble by Erica Weiss

This has been an eclectic summer for Institute Madrigals.we had an opportunity to work with three very different conductors. New to HCSMF&I, Mr. Richard Bell conducted a somewhat larger madrigal choir than usual, with pieces such as Three Madrigals, The Falcon, Love Lost and You are the Nee-oo day. (what exactly do those lyrics mean?) Second session, Mr. Wallace brought in a delectable array of madrigals, including sing we and chant it (as always), Fair Phyllis, My Bonny Lass she Smileth and P.D.Q. Bach's My Bonny Lass she Smelleth. Third session, HCSMF&I veteran Dr. Bob Swift brought in three different versions of the famous sing we and chant it.

Sightreading for Strings by Meaghan Nelsen

Whether we only had a quartet- or practically an entire orchestra- the "excitement" never ceased when Mr. And Mrs. Mumm were in charge. We played it all from trios to tangos- there was always a new piece to challenge you. Some of Mr. Mumm's students "enthralled" him with their witty-repartee even at the wee hours of the morning. He learned two new key phrases- "Whoopie-dingle" and "yippee skippee." For their efforts, students could strive for the ever-so-sought-after Gold Stars. In any case, we learned how to keep our spot in the music, even though we didn't always hit each note or have exactly the right rhythm. At least we didn't have to stop every measure and say," Maestro, I missed a note, we have to go back!" (outsiders might not get that inside joke) Thanks for all the fun Mr. and Mrs. Mumm!

Women's Choir by Kristina Pawlusik and Lindsay Starner

The success of women's choir is largely due to our conductor, Kelly Travis, who unified our voices as well as our group of girls. We had a lot of fun and we learned a TON! The group consisted of 12 girls who all had a will to learn and a lot of talent. These two characteristics mainly describe our group and are demonstrated in the songs that we perform. The songs we sang were "Scarborough Fair", "Pie Jesu," "Alleluia, Amen," and "Lullaby of Broadway." The talented members of Women's choir are Kristina Pawlusik, Lindsay Starner, Courtney Biondo, Julia Giguero, Gabrielle MacMillen, Katrina Poetal, Alicia Rickard, Arielle Worona, Rachel Rome, Sarah Zorrow, April Galletly, and Elizabeth Cape. To Kelly- thank you for your leadership and effort. We really appreciate all you have given us. - the girls.

Symphony Orchestra by Meaghan Nelsen

This intermediate level orchestra convened at 2:10 each afternoon. While bountiful with violins, we usually lacked in the viola, cello, and bass sections. But somehow they always seemed to compensate with the strength of their playing. First session, symphony orchestra was conducted by Mr. Bob Cafaro. Second session, Alasdair Mitchell brought a piece from his homeland with him: we played a "Suite of Scottish Dances," Britten's "Five Courtly Dances from Gloriana", "Praeludium" by Jarnefelt, and "Bourgeois' Serenade." Third session, the conductor was Spencer Martin. We played the "Declaration Overture" and "Carmen." All in all, we had fun doing one of the best things in life. Making music!

Part Time Theory by Michelle Van Name

Part time Theory was held in Yager at 9:00 am. It is a class designed to give us an overview of music theory in only two weeks. We were surprised at how much we learned in such a short amount of time. When someone hears the word theory, the first thought that pops into most of our heads is boring, but that class was not boring at all. Liz Clasquin, our teacher, made it fun. In between the "Austin Powers" conversations, we learned about scaled, intervals, time signatures, dictations, and a lot of musical terms. Every Friday was donut day. Liz brought in Dunkin Donuts for the whole class to eat while learning theory. Overall, part time theory gave us a better understanding of music.

General Music

During the second session, Matt Bejune was joined by Ashleyne Seitz, Natsumi Nakahara, Gifford Meyer, and Zack Dombrowski. The class worked on rhythm reading, subdividing, ear training, singing, listening skills, key signatures, scales, and the division of livestock into separate but equal pens. Fun was had by all, especially by Matt because he worked with such "smarties."

Concert Band by Ryan Ulrich

The best band of HCSMF&I would, in no doubt, have to be the Concert Band conducted by our formally bearded friend, Mark Whitman. What other ensemble allows the unique opportunity to "learn another instrument," a rarity accidentally unique to Concert Band. Of course this did not sit too wll with Mark, since he takes pride in the glorious Concert Band and it was news to him when people started showing up willing to play new instruments. Despite all the confusion and an entirely new (and pretty good) drum section, Mark had done a superbly awesome job of pulling the band together. Currently we are in the process of rehearsing two pieces, "Air and March" by the great Henry Percell, and another equally thrilling "Air for Band" by Frank Erickson, both straight from Mark's Rutland public school archive; where he's the band director. The last ting that most definitely makes Concert Band so great is Mark's awesome stories. I've never had so clearly a definition and explanation on how to crescendo as Mark eloquently put it as finding a huge sock in the middle of the road as you're driving fanatically to the hospital with your wife in the back seat about to give birth. Pushing the sock out of the way, as Mark put it, is synonymous to a properly executed crescendo. Thanks Mark for all the stories, and the effort, all the jokes and especially for one great band.

Festival Choir by Jennifer Jacquet

Festival Choir is the one ensemble that everyone must participate in. But don't think that it wasn't lots of fun. Mr. Bell, Mr. Wallace, and Dr. Swift were always sure to entertain us while we were learning our music. "Big Papa" Bell told us the story of the Jabberwocky and made our days quite frabjous. Mr. Wallace told us about his scrabble adventures with Marsha and how to worship our pencils and keep our trachus happy. During the last session, Dr. Swift reminded us of times gone by at Hartwick and administrated a very challenging Festival Quiz. Since Festival Choir was made up of all musicians, both vocal and instrumental, a very special sound was made. We were able to sing a glorious Hallelujah Chorus because of our large size, while at the same time singing pure and sweet ballads. Festival Choir was never a chore because we were singing all different styles of music; from classical to jazz. All three conductors helped make festival choir fun and we made some beautiful music.

Cello Ensembles and Technique Class by Lisa Perlson and Susan Kenderdine

Cello class, taught by Rob Cafaro and Amy Joseph, is a daily meeting of nearly all of HCSMF&I's fine cellists. Although we worked hard, learning cello quartets for 16 celli and scales and arpeggios in 4 octaves, we never failed to have fun. Here are just some of the memorable quotes and events from the celli: Okay, who has a good A? Viagra, jervous and nerky, fresh of breath air, grasshopper....shh!, it's okay—his parents are cousins, the world's smallest violin playing the world's saddest song, sand box...um, salt box...I mean, soap box, It's like roaches in here, my bow stroke, practice scales 5 hours a day for 3 years, It's okay, he's from Long Island, missed page turns, stars and stripes, high 1st cello parts, Donald Duck voices, harmonics Elephant Ring super power, techno cello ensemble, Charlie Brown, the guy from Days of Our Lives, Baroque improv with Mr.Mitchell, and finally, all cellists should remember Zen and the Art of Alchemy—relax, practice is over.

Woodwind Ensembles by Kristin Flower

This summer you may have heard beautiful music coming from third floor Yager during ensembles time. That of course was the heavenly sound of the woodwind ensembles. Coached by Amy Appel, Jessica Havens, Liz Clasquin, Dan Block, Kristin Flower, Anne Santoro, Scott Harrison, Joanna Schwartz, Kathy Hulin, Janet Miller and Alex Knoll the students got to expand their musical horizons and experience chamber music. Flute, Clarinet, Oboe, Bassoon and horn players were placed in small groups from duets to quintets. Some of the ensembles performed on the ensemble concert held on the second Thursday of each session. The rest of the students performed in a master class held every other Friday. Chamber music is a great way for the students to learn about their playing and others', too! Plus it's fun! Congratulations to all the ensembles and their coaches—you all sounded wonderful! Great work!!

1st Floor Smith "Girls Rock" by Megan Lemley

Our floor had a lot of fun this year. With floor bonding in our private lounge watching movies and ordering food, cutting each others' hair, walking around with scary facial masks, or bathing caps, celebrating birthdays with the greatest of style, enjoying our guest-lights-outers rendition of an old Irish lullaby, and setting off the fire alarms with our cold bathroom and hot showers, we never stopped having a good, or at least interesting, time. We enjoyed finding out fun facts about each other, like who spoke Japanese, who doesn't eat wheat, who was bitten by a black widow spider, and who is obsessive about shaving. Throughout the three sessions we all loved meeting the new students and welcoming them to our floor while at the same time we missed everybody who had to leave before the last couple of weeks. Altogether we were a great floor and we had a Rockin' Good Time!

Quotable Quotes

Eric Fuhrman: "You can't do that."

Lisa Donnelly: "I didn't order a pizza."

James Rosen: "Bump-chica-bump-bainrr."

Mr.Soto: "I'm going to the park to see my girlfriend. She's got purple hair and three eyes."

Marcus Theinert: "What the delio?"

Kari Osborne to Dr.Z.: "Put on some clothes."

Lara Mones: "Subtract! You know the thing you learned in 3rd grade."

Counseling staff: "It's funny, cause it's true."

Dr. Bob: "There is nothing worse than flat sopranos."

"Festival": "Dusty Rhodes"

Dr. Z.: "I call this the Riot Act and I read it straight from the handbook."

"Please try to take auditions in a positive manner."

"As the old axiom says...if at first you don't succeed, try and try again."

"The next issue has to do with concert decorum. It's an issue; it's an important issue."

"Treat the stage crew with respect. When they are out on stage, that's not a time to start laughing at a stage crew."

In reference to digital watches: "It's a good thing to turn those off at a concert."

"There's that word ballistic, which I haven't used this summer."

"I will go ballistic!"

"I would like to see which floor can make the best munchkin sound."

"We have a spigot here. We turn it on, we turn it off."

"What is good for the goose is good for the gander."

"I use the term mediocrity. It's a word that doesn't exist here at HCSMF&I."

Alex Feerst: "Mediocrity by any other name would sound just as out of tune."

In reference to life-threatening situations/statements by students: "If you are upset about something and you are frizzed out..."

"That was some very subtle humor on my part."

Kari Osborne: "Please give your money to Matt or I. That way Matt and myself can order the pizzas."

Kari Osborne: "The lack of energy in this room is extremely disturbing!"

Hal Janks: "When in doubt, pull out!"

Myriam Sollman: "We are also in charge of box lunches...but not really."

Cara Schweller: "I tried to pull off the weiner, but it was attached."

Myriam Sollman: "Give them the finger and they want the whole thing."

Andy Meagher: "Music is my bh."

Counseling staff: "FIRED!"

Sarah Berloe: "He was really short and she was really high."

Rodney Winther: "Julie, play like your bud is opening up."

James Rosen: "Julie, let me open your bud, baby."

Junior Asparagus: "Why do you need a hairbrush? You don't have any hair!"

Hal Janks: "Ahoy!"

Jane Grover: "I think James O-Sullivan is seeing a lot of ships."

Alex Aviles: "That ritard was retarded."

Nicole Fradette to Elana Smith: "We'd make the perfect flute player—you finger and I'll blow."

Tom Harris-Warrick: "Cool! Amir has three legs!"

Counseling staff: "I'm (optional: not) down with that."

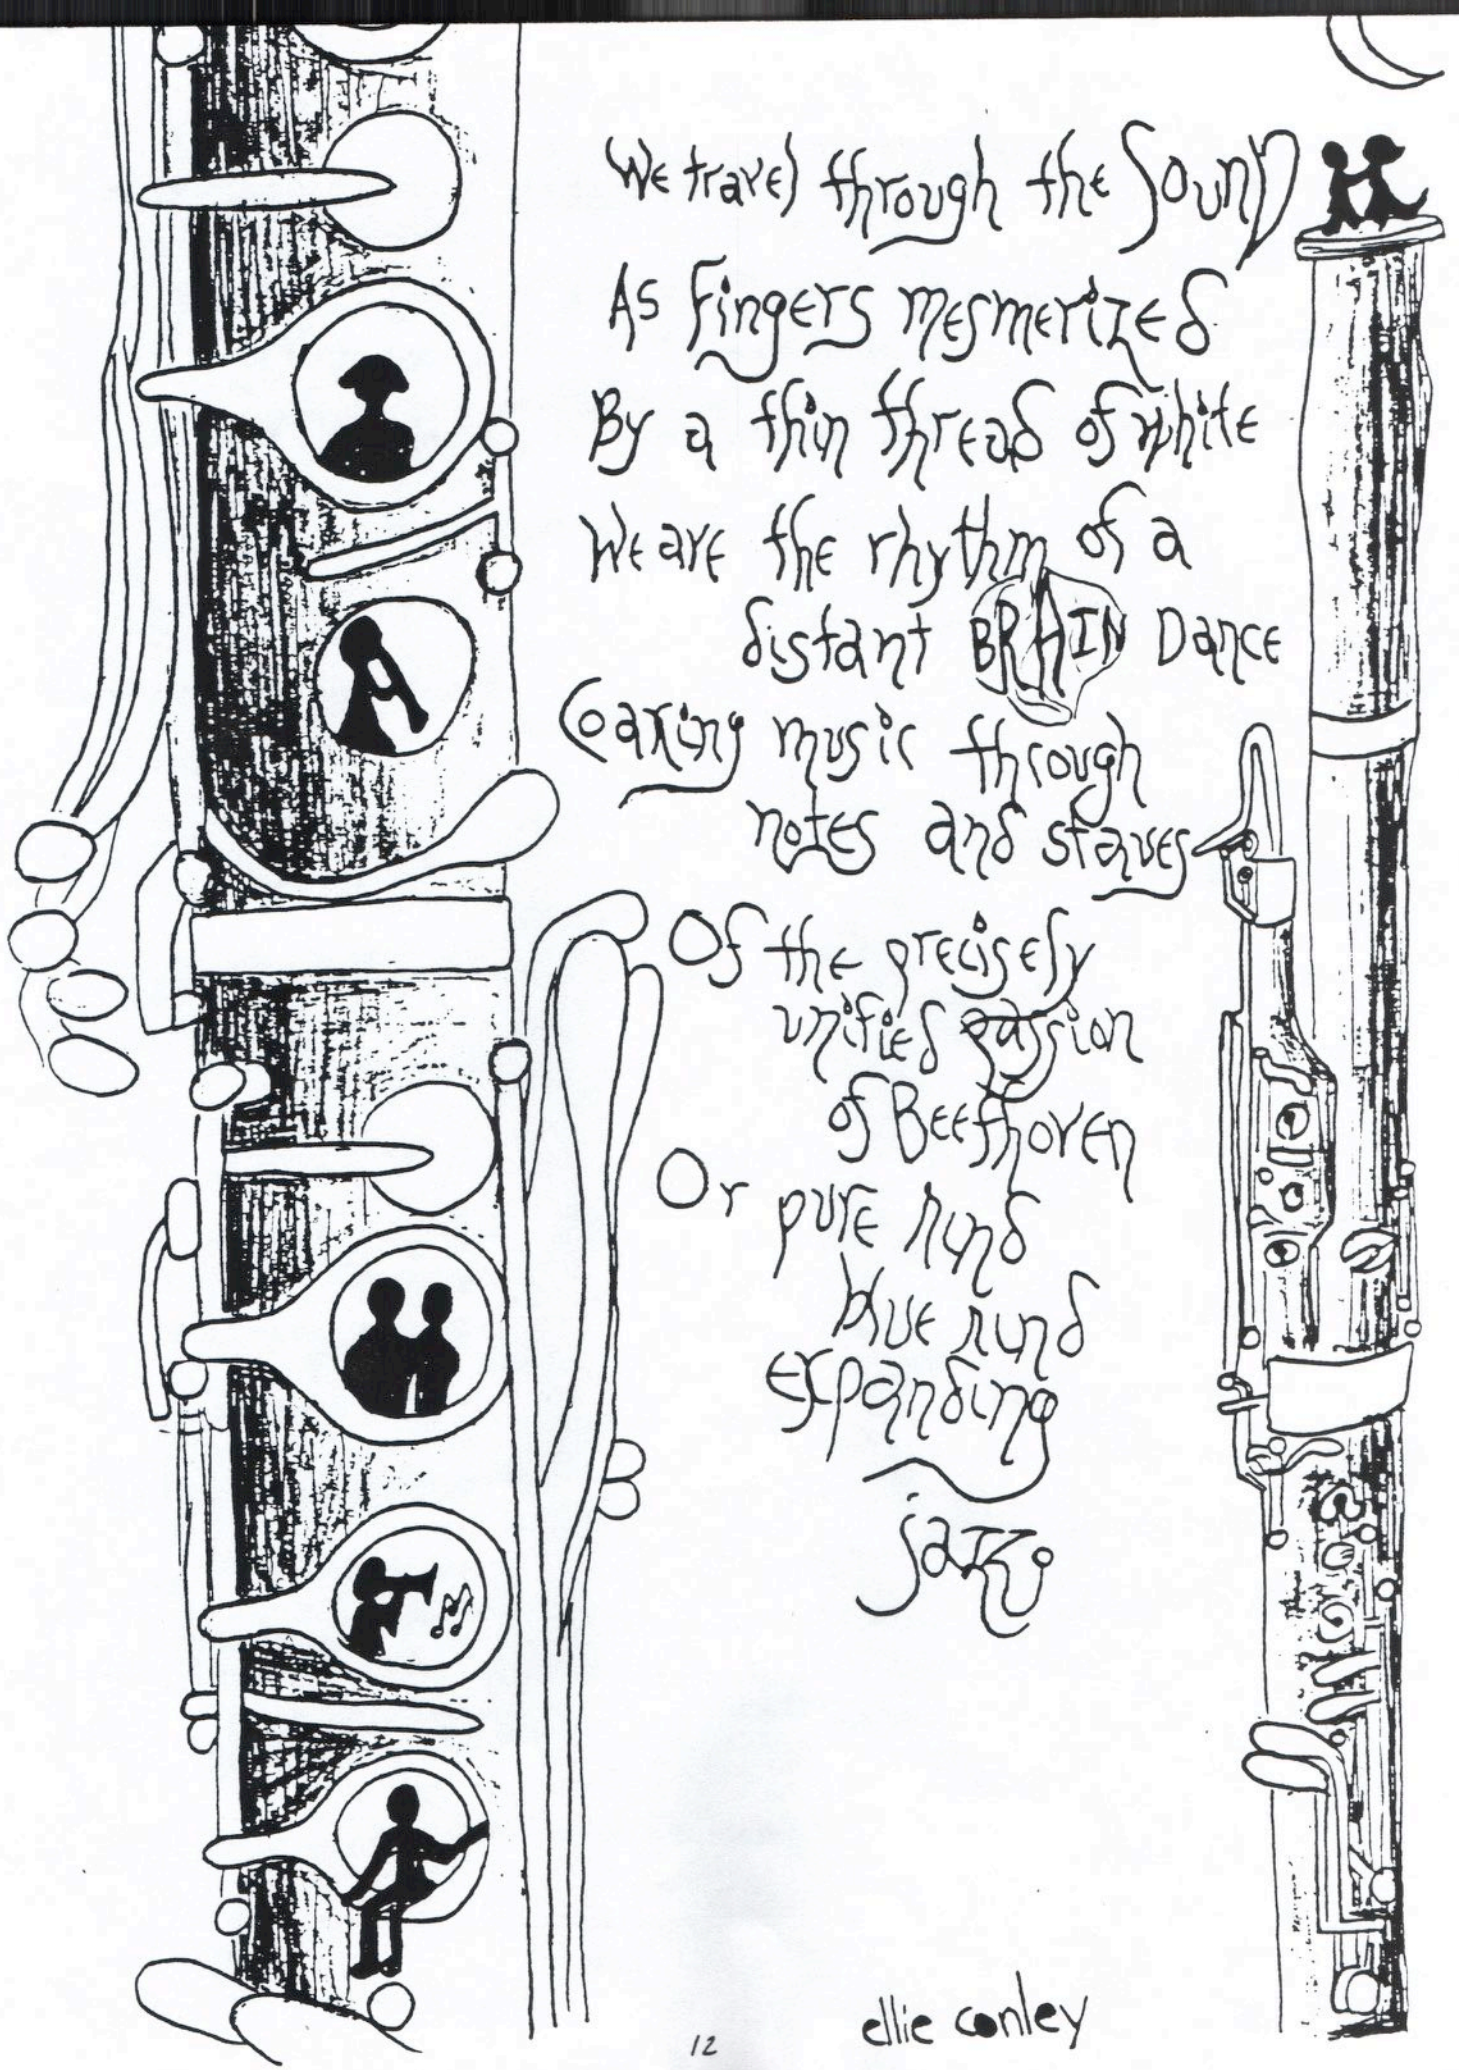

Counseling staff: "Because this summer is all about options."

Stephanie Gallo and Nicole Fradette were roommates during weeks 1 through 4 and during the first two weeks, had a small dilemma. They believed their room in VanEss to be a normal, air-conditioned, carpeted, spacious dorm room. Upon entering, much to their surprise, the room was not quite what they had in mind. However, they put that aside and moved in. After a few nights they began to realize they were not the only two living there. They would innocently fall asleep and when they woke up, they saw mysterious, red dots all over their bodies. At first, they didn't think much of it and actually had fun playing connect the dots. However, sleeping in "off" bug spray became somewhat tiresome. They went to the appropriate authority figures and said farewell to their creepy, crawly, flying friends. The moral of the story is: don't make friends with everyone when you come to camp! The End.

Elana Smith and I, Nicole Fradette are both flute players. We came to camp with similar but different goals in mind. Elana has outstanding technical ability and wanted to work on her sound. The opposite is true for me. Elana says I have a gorgeous sound, and I know I have to work on my technique. One day, we were practicing together and I said "oh Elana, if I could only have your technique," and she said, "oh Nicole, I would cross the seven seas for your sound." So I turned to her with what I thought was a logical solution and said: "You finger and I'll blow!"

Farewell Song

Say goodbye now
Say goodbye on middle C
Make it piano, wistful
Choke back your tears
Sing it, or play it softly
Try to keep looking ahead
Say goodbye
Hug until you can't bear to let go
Drive away towards reality
In a minor key
Smile if you can Take a picture
(Not right now, I'm a mess!)
Say something
Anything
Just make sure it's in tune
(And until we meet again..)
Say goodbye now, It's time
(May God hold you in the palm of his hand)
Let the song be the background music
For the rest of your memory

Five years and counting,
Erica Weiss

Phenomenal Woman

By: Maya Angelou

Pretty women wonder where my secret lies.
I'm not cute or built to suit a fashion
Model's size
But when I start to tell them,
They think I'm telling lies.
I say,
It's in the reach of my arms,
The span of my hips,
The stride of my step,
The curl of my lips.
I'm a woman
Phenomenally.
Phenomenal Woman,
That's me.

I walk into a room
Just as coolas you please,
And to a man,
The fellows stand or
Fall down on their knees.
Then they swarm around me,
A hive of honey bees.
I say,
It's the fire in my eyes,
And the flash of my teeth,
The swing in my waist
And the joy in my feet.
I'm a woman
Phenomenally.
Phenomenal woman
That's me.

Poem
By: Jen Lucia

I write the songs
The music of the world
The elusive melody
Intricate harmonies
That float on air
I write the songs
The convoluted lyrics
In the languages of nature
In comprehensible to the human ear
Yet so complete
I write the songs
That fill one's heart
And make it soar or fall
I write the songs
The music of the soul
And I keep the soul of the earth
In my hands.

Rabbit Solo
By: Catherine Herr

They lay in bed;
A new girl
Who won't understand the quintet,
And a recorded concert
Beats against the sheets.

"That's me!"
(A trumpet solo)
"Really?"

And a "yeah," soft like rabbit
Goes around her shoulders.

There's the way
For five minutes
And then he's not there anymore.

He's thinking of silos
Where he saw death occur
(His friend fell).

But he'll come around.

Untitled

Once upon a time, there was a land ruled by an aging and tyrranical and insane leader, Ms. Fich. Long before the land had been a happy and beautiful place full of dancing, laughter, and of course, music, but as of late, things had fallen in disrepair and it was apparent to all. The sky was a little less blue, the grass a little less green, the music far more out of tune. Our hero came to the land many times before and knew that the time for change must be soon at hand.

Now in this land there dwelled a beautiful princess (because all lands must have beautiful princesses.) And she was part of an entire class of enslaved workers, who toiled endlessly for no reward, and who were constantly being imprisoned for no apparently good reason. Whenever they raised their voices in anger or complaint, a banner was raised across the land which read "Freedom is Slavery". And if things became truly bad, a second banner was raised which read, "You're fired." The princess had many wonderful friends among the enslaved ones. They had come from all around the world to be in the land but now and then, they weren't sure why they were there, except maybe for eachother. Our hero saw the unhappiness of them all, and decided that truly the time for change must soon be at hand.

Also within the land dwelled the last of a dying race, whom no one would miss, the Ogo-Bears. This last one, The Lumbering Oaf, followed around the enslaved ones everywhere they went, and if possible made their treatment an even less pleasant one.

Finally there were the Elders. People who had dwelled in the land for years upon years, and who wre wise to the ways things were before, were now, perhaps would be in the future. The Elders knew that there final days in the land were fast approaching so they took extra-special care to impart upon the enslaved ones all that they would need to know to return the land to they way it was in the days before Ms. Fich had gone insane, before the Lumbering Oaf, was allowed to, well, lumber, and when the music was in fact, quite in tune.

Now our hero spent much time trying to work through the strange, degrading ways of the land, with the ever receding hope that soon, or at least someday, he would be able to change things (having already seen more that once that it was a time for change.) However, soon the land turned against him, the enslaved ones were constantly under surveillance, and their slightest move was reprimanded with the most severe punishments. At these times the ominous banners were raised across the landscape, and fear was instilled in all the people of the land, as those banners fluttered in the western wind. And what is more, that most terrible last of the Ogo-Bears kidnapped the beautiful princess.

But as our hero knew, nothing can stay wrong forever, and soon the enslaed ones had found a comrade in the most unlikely of high places, Ms. Fich. Ms. Fich, although still insane, took them away and allowed them to escape the land, and return to reality. It was then that a few of the enslaved one slipped of, to have a journey of their own. Out into the darkness, and into the unknown, but most importantly, into freedom. That night (or morning) as they heard the world awake, even as they would have been, had it been a normal day. And when ripples stroked the surface and the magic was broken, they knew that time had come to return to reality (or perhaps leave it), and take care of business. From then on the enslaved ones, stopped reading the banners above them, and started to live freely, and the land began to change for the better. The grass was greener, the sky bluer, and the music was far more in tune. And they looked aaround, and saw that the Elders approved greatly, as the enslaved ones looked at themselves and realized that soon, they would be Elders too. Our hero was happier, seeing that the time for change was now.

At length it seemed the land was getting closer to the way it once was. IT wasn't there yet, but they always say that patience is a virtue. Finally, the last Ogo-Bear, The Lumbering Oaf, one of the last of the hold overs from the dark days that had preceded, he release the princess to do as she would, and he lumbered back up to where ever it is Ogo-Bears go. And right now our hero doesn't know what the future holds, for him, or for the landm or for the slightly-less-enslaved ones, or for the princess or even for the Ogo-Bear and Ms. Fich. But he hopes that one day the sun will rise over the land, and the grass will be its greenest, the sky its bluest, and no one will get free dental work form listening to the music. (Sorry if this made no sense I wrote it really fast to everyone: You know who you are, I love you all)

Semper cum amore,
Ajay

Last Wills and Testaments

The last will of Andy Weber ...After five years here, what can I say? This place and people have been so good to me. To all my friends, thanks for the memories. To everyone, I hope to see you all during the year. This actually is a will. I always write this when I am the most absent-minded, but here's just a few. To Ariel, I leave an apology and a successful year. To my roommates Chris and John (triple, what's up?) thanks for making this summer work. Chris, you get everlasting heterosexuality, the right oil and a good gig playing guitar. To John, a time when I say your name right, a good fight and concert jazz. Ashley, what can I say? Have a great year; keep your head up. To Erica and Jen, my fellow veterans, a hug and all that stuff you talk about. James, well you know. To Mark and Dan, you guys really needed a bigger pool. To everyone else, just take what you want. Have a great year everybody.

Chris Jones' will: "Wonder is often lost, jaded at such a cost. Age undermines you. When you close your eyes we flash right by you." John—a rubber, that you may put it to good use next summer. Andy--you da man. Katie—a pick; so you don't hurt your beautiful hands. Daria—a full can of balls so we have an excuse. Rachel—the letter. Cellos—I love you all. James W. and Hugh A.—a pair of clean, new Hartwick socks. Joe—1 dozen hot wings, a pizza and some rice, which will be delivered by 10:00, a screen, and a roommate. "I was  by an alien!"

I, Courtney Rubin, leave to Sarah a shoe buckle so she doesn't trip in front of anyone important and so she doesn't sound like a cowbell. I leave to Rebecca an identification tag just in case she happens to lose anything. I leave to Julie my Oreos if she has a craving for a midnight snack after a quick drink. I leave to Jackie a pillow and blanket so she doesn't have to dirty herself on the floor. I also leave her my low-heeled shoes for those important hikes. I leave Jen my ice cream so she can enjoy it as much as I do. I leave Kavitha my gum to chew on during her fun trip to Singapore. I leave Katie L., my fellow cow lover, all my cow stuff. Cows rule! I leave Felicitas my clothing detergent or wash middle. I leave to Amy my Dr.Pepper pyramid because she's the only one who likes it. Meaghan can have my skipper dolls to remember me by and Katie S. can have my skirt pin for those important performances.

I, Katie Andryshak, leave all the toilet paper in my room to the second floor VanEss counselors. I leave Kim one medium Dominoes pizza. To Jackie, I give one whale and fish. I leave Marc a "blow up Kimmie doll." I will all my left over chinese food and magazines to Kavitha. My 'Kermit the Frog' hat is willed to Jen. Angela should have my dead discman batteries. I leave Susannah a banana. Heidi 'G' is given the power to make more floor signs. I leave Katie one last sincere goodnight hug. I leave Walter a gnuse. Flo also needs a bra and air freshener. I leave everything dearest to me to Adia 12:02 (aka Kimmie). A gnuse for Walter, a thesaurus, new fan, moving co., all the green tea in WalMart, longer bed sheets, dinner napkins, fish cups, sublime CD, peppermint patties, gray sweatpants, stupet rums, contraceptives, banana trees, blueberry muffins, and a window. And to all the friends I've made, I leave my love.

I, Kimmie Borovicka, leave to the second floor VanEss girls wall climbing and many happy memories. I leave Kavitha my pillow and Angela, of course Angel. I leave Katie Twelve Grain Bread with turkey, and to Jackie a whale and fish. I will to Kim pizza, 9:00 conducting and flute ensembles. I leave to Marc many talks at meals, concerts and walks "home" along with shiny shoes, a shiny belt and "that look." Then I leave to Susannah Marie Claire and of course to Heidi all my Marc memories along with my wedding invitations. I now leave to Katie many memorable things. I leave her our "rum," a working fan, our room decorations, our windows for brushing and our furniture business. Also for Kate all the dinner plates, fish cups, and scoping out our "friends" at meals. I leave her a banana, blueberry muffins and 500 jumping jacks. Katie is also willed Bill Butter, In Virtute Tua, and Adia 12:02. One thing especially left for Katie is my fatal attraction in D3. And last but not least I leave her all the happiness in the world. I leave to all my new friends here tons of love. You are all great people.

I, Beth McCraw, will to the following people' Kim, the second page of the Beethoven. Katie, I leave you Egyptian Ratscrew but steal your ability. Nicole, I leave you my Gemeinhardt so I can keep your Emerson. ☺ Elana, I will you a transfer to any school you want. Richard, dazzling white shoes, snazzy pink socks and the "slapper" game. Bethany, I leave you a phonecard with infinite time so you can talk all you want. Amy, a snobless world (if only) and tons of mints. Sara, a recipe for last year's chicken. Jessica, I leave you your braces to be put back on so people will stop exclaiming over their absence. Sheila, I leave you success with E flat. Marie, Chantelle and Jenn, male bonding at its worst. J.D., I leave you the ability to be the best at everything! Just keep trying! Sarah, what would I have done without you? I leave you better New Englands, a billion comebacks to use on Isaac, top bunks, in tune flutists @ Harwood and someone to recognize you for your own talent. Everyone, keep in touch. If you're ever near Fayston, come see me. If you're missing, you're not forgotten. I just ran out of room.

Stephanie Gallo's will and testament: Jen "Eva" –a chair to take cover from "bats." Sheila "Mocha"—decaffeinated coffee. Elana "Smitty"—a portable practice room. Meghan "Psycho"—another fruit basket. Molly—a new dog. Paul—a new van. James—those infamous voices. Katie B.—a personal soda & salt kit. Rachel "Dep"—a really sweet guy. Meredith—some actual food. Virginia—another cool bottle. Matt Thibault—better luck with nicer girls. Nick—another pair of JNCO's. Anthony—the car of your dreams. And now to my very best friends here at HCSMF&I: Well Krissy "Mel" and Nicole "Niicola" where do I start? Krissy you're truly my twin. Hon, we were separated at birth. Never forget all of our great memories. Guy-watching for you, on frabjious day, our daddy, and those girls from first we loved so much. Goodbye, I love ya and I'll never forget you. Nicole, my roommate. I'd have to say when hanging out with you there is never a dull moment. I was dreading a roommate, but you were definitely frumious. Other than the alternative music, you're awesome. Good luck, I know you'll succeed. You better keep in touch or else! I love you!

Nicole Fradette last will and testaments; Here's to many laughs, frabjious days and some of the best friends I've ever had! I love you all! Steph (Ghetto): you're a great roommate and the best dancer I know! Here's to white eyeliner, bug spray, "real" music like Creed and an orgasmic bed! Rachel (Dep): you have meant more to me than you know. You'll be a friend for life and also in my wedding right? Here's to: a great tan, letting the cat out of the bag, being twins, diets, the lunch lady and tons of frabjious days and eternal laughs! Krissy (Mel): My daughter, you are one of a kind. I've never laughed so hard—one word: twice! Here's to your own make-up (cover my zit), a watch ring to check time, Kathleen's cookies and the shim! Elana (Smitty): you are an awesome girl. I wish you the best, you are very talented. Here's to an asian guy with a british accent, who sings tenor, figure skates with a long neck! Sheila (Mocha): you have such a talent! Here's to decaf coffee and "beef" with the lunch lady. Jen (Veva): amazing poems, one day you'll rescue my earring! Molly (Mimi): "would you light my candle?"

Natalie Gioiella's will: Within two weeks, Hartwick has become my home away from home. From the moment I arrived, everyone was kind, bubbly, and enthusiastic. In my will I leave VanEss with water pressure, windows with screens, and air conditioning. I leave everyone on the 2nd floor of VanEss a pair of my orange Abercrombie pants, and a day with the worlds 50 most beautiful people. And to my roommate Catherine, I leave a life supply of facial tissues, and a new pair of Docs. At Hartwick, besides learning and practicing music, I made many good friends. To my slave friend Erica B. I leave a good voice and a huge hug a day. To Sarah Z., I leave a new clarinet, and an in-town clarinet section. To Katy (Erica's roommate) I leave a full scholarship to Julliard. I have many memories of practicing on campus, including trying to cut music, not having a music stand, and having stands fall apart in my hands. So I leave 1,000 new, non-wobbly music stands to the campus. To everyone on campus I leave all of you friendship, laughter, gourmet food, and no more school. I hope everyone has had as much fun as I had. I miss you all.

Elana Smith's last will & testaments: Steph: blonde hair. Krissy: an 11pm curfew. Rachel: a twin & a frabjous day. Meghan: more fun times in Festival Choir. Kim Setteducatti: a penny, a new clap, a sane person to sit with at concerts, & an endless supply of granola raisin cereal. Nicole: Thanks for all of the fun times in practice rooms, meals, and hours of being anti-social at patio time. You are by far one of the funniest people I've ever met! I leave you an accident-free day, your own phone, your own personal napkin dispenser, a satisfying meal and "beef." Sheila: You definitely made this summer wonderful! You were an awesome roommate!! I'll always remember "moving furniture" with you, and singing "the Jabberwocky" and our lovely improvised arias. I leave you Murphy the cat, a roommate with normal sleep patterns, "the Molday" and lots of luck at Indiana. I'll miss you. I love you all and will miss you very much! Thanks for the memories!

Yeou-Jey Hsu's will: to Laura I leave enough ice cream to last a lifetime & an interesting 2:10 class. To Beth and Lauren I give a list of TV shows A-Z. To Jen, I leave a more coordinated roommate and enough sleep. To Alex, I leave a triggerless bass trombone. To Katie, Jonathan, Nick, Nate, & Eric, I leave memories of morning and afternoon rehearsals & our quests for rooms, stands, and melodies. To Patrick and Nate (who were capable of turning 6 confused brass players into a competent sextet), Josh, Mitch, Mauricio, best of luck. To Ariel & Greg, I leave seats next to each other when playing Karel Husa. To Mel, I leave a drink of soko.

I, Samuel Smith, leave the remaining crumbs of my rosin to my best friend Jen Willis (a fellow cello), who wanted to be addressed in this manner. I also let the fans of my cousin Steve Wilder (in the role of Jack Deveraux on "Days of our Lives") namely Lara, Angela, and especially Amy Johnson be the heiress of the Powerbars, which I have received as a gracious gift from Steve, my great friend.

Gabie Budoff—I leave these things to the following people: Felicitas: echee pechee, sreading, chocolate chip cookies, Claudia Schiffer and flower power!, falling on steps in front of everybody. Kavitha: Ritz crackers, Mr.Mumm and the flower garden, showing up 20 minutes late to B.T. and claiming that you were talking to Dr.Z. Caroline: the Glimmerglass Opera, cafeteria food, the peasant song, Festival Choir. Ashley: a boyfriend data book to keep track of all of them, the dying swan. Jen: a large roll of tape to tape your mouth shut (just kidding), pounding on our door at midnight, Sam because you know you want him. Cecile: last but not least I leave you Peru Mangoes and corn, the bloated stomach, a new soap opera about your school, Mike stories, Led Zeppelin and the Spice Girls, late pizza night, vanilla chip ice cream, and finally a book of my favorite pessimist sayings! I love all you guys and I hope to keep in touch!

I Becca Lutz leave these memories to the people below: Julie—all our late night chats were the best! You love Ukraine. You know who I love, thanks for listening. I love him so much! Catherine—the best was singing to Now&Then in my room shouting to people out the window. We both were in the same guy problems, listening to each other's stories. Lee—orange soda! You're the coolest! Thanks for all you did. Krissy—soccer guys all the way! Molly—I love you girl! KIT. Sarah and Courtney—love the room guys! Julie, Meaghan, & Catherine—so many good times. I'll miss you all! Just remember the names. KIT. Glen—you're truly the best! Situations really do suck but we made it through. We still have a lot of memories like the opera, your key, gum wrappers and the soda machine made everything better, not so confusing! I really don't have faces. I just loved Koi and Jojo, you're such a sweetie! And I think you know who I like. Sorry I had to leave, it was the hardest thing! I miss you so much! Promise that you'll keep in touch! I'll love you forever! Meaghan—"why thank you!"

Katie Schorr – It's been a wonderful summer at Hartwick! I'm leaving my roommate, Monica, all the closed windows she wants. I'm leaving Katie a sack of potatoes. To Erica, her roommate, my bright red lipstick. I'm leaving Emily Luidens "chocolate peanut butter?!" To Becca and Lara, tuba lessons for beginners. To Karin a lap top computer. To Lisa Donnelly a box of ice cream cones. To Rachel Cama, I'm leaving older men. To Jen, Cecil, and Kavitha a song book of "blue" songs. I'm leaving Rob an alarm clock set for 6:45. I'm leaving James an overly pretentious tone and sarcasm. To Seth, a sign language hand book. To my sightsinging class, I'm leaving forks and knives. To my improv class "How to seduce." I'm sure that I've left out some names but I'm quite rushed! To all the CIT's on my floor, Rachel, Sam Kaitlin, Hannah, Virginia, Lisa, Jocelyn,... you guys were the sweetest, funniest, most supportive people! You made this summer better for all of us! I love you all! And to all of my counselors, you were wonderful as well! Monica, Gabrielle, Sarah, and Kelly! I will miss you so much! I'll miss everyone! Oh, I'm getting teary-eyed! Thanks for a great four weeks! I'll miss you and never forget you! Until next summer. Love, Katie Schorr

I, Desiree Horst, would like to leave the following people with the following things: Risa; Jncets, Rocos, cool socks, my Addidas, orange HI-C, and the "Big Hill." Brown Erin; bathrobe, nail glue, Dillon and Ross. Blonde Erin; my hair do, Nathan's shoes, and several slices of gum. Megan; reflections in the mirror. Heidi; my tan shoes. Sarah; my stain stick. Nathan; his pants. Kristin; our big mouths and even triplets. Hannah; lollipops. Jocelyne; Dr. Pepper and little secrets. Steve; $4.00, my giggles + curls, a lesson, and all the "tutti" sections. Eric; his own laundry and spot #6 on my list. Evan; crappy seats, My Snuggle Bean, his clothes, back rubs, my broken toes, Beavis and Butthead, and my ultimate Frisbee skills. Katie; Steve and his ankle bracelet. Nick; pink scented bags, the laundry room + payphone, nice holes in you're a, vanilla mango feet, your "scruffies" and your credit card. Risa – we ARE the assets to the team. Remember our bra conversations everyone. Mark, I'm not a waitress or exotic dancer. Much love to all.

I, Betsy Williams, leave the following to these awesome people: Rebecca: our beautiful souped up room with the flowers, pictures, magazines, and mess, my shoes, 10 packs of gum, perfect eyebrows, a permanent laundry man, a light that doesn't burn, and our forever bond as roommates! Lara: my intense running skills, 100 popcorn refills, a night without hearing about Karen's love, the hope that you, me and Erin will someday get together, and I leave you and Nate – alone! Emiley: our home in Kansas (including the hefers), forever happiness with Erez, the power to try and look beyond the annoyance of certain people... and a whole lot of Chinese food. Karen: the answers to all her guy problems and all her questions, the ability to have confidence and belief in herself. Lindsay: all the donuts in theory, many more days of laying in the sun, happiness with the Bulldog Brass Society. Liz and Katie: all our wonderful second soprano parts. Megan: a high pitched Megan. Joe: the rainbow sherbet, and maybe my phone number (in a few years), and our awesome accent. Alex: our kickin' orchestra parts we can never play. Seth: a short tie. Eric: proof that I don't like Joe. 1st floor girls: hope that our buff floormate, Eric, will move back. 1st floor counselors and CIT's: a huge thank you for being so awesome and great friends.

I, Erin Carvin, leave: Erin: cable T.V., a jabberwocky, soup, a pepper, a trip to my grandfather's late night talks about guys, chinese and spaghetti, kiwi-strawberry snapple, pajama pants, Ross, shaving cream, foundation, hairspray, shoes, and the best of luck with Matt. Nick: the chance to be perverted, a bagel, and heavenly hash. Desiree: slutty clothes, cheese fries, curly hair, and sparkles. Risa: 18 cheeseburgers and 18 small fries, jolly ranchers, gummi bears, tylenol, and a bed in a bathroom stall. Megan: vegetable lo mein, a shirt to borrow, and french fries. Katie: a guy who "just glows," some clothes, and a new roommate. Steve: general "sals" chicken, boxers, a camera, a ski trip, and stories. Lisa: orange glasses. Jen: a poetry reading and some good advice. Neesa: a goodnight song. Sara: fuzziness, a headband, and some earplugs. James: underwear without creases. Matt T: something to put down your pants. Matt C: computers, "heart and soul", and a retainer. Nathan: adidas sandals, and odor eaters. Ross:

"Ripsaw," cologne, a hot girl and a viola with a chopstick. Robert: a squeeze. To everyone: a sunny day, a bra talk, and a massage. Love ya!

Cordelia Schore's last will and testament! I bequeath these items to: Gillian Pistell – her favorite jellybean flavors, wall decorations, and many washing machine quarters. Lousa Rivera a.k.a. Bob Smith – weird clothes and weird drawings. Jamie Crain – a place over the rainbow, and non- bubble gum flavored medicine. Virginia Gao a.k.a. Maryland State- the new end to "Joanne Crabapple and the leafman...," a fridge full of water and Sunny D, and a squirt bottle. Meredith Hoffman-Thompson – a lifetime supply of Dr. Pepper, and magic to make you play the bassoon part. Jane Grover – the saying "Flush and run!" toilets that don't spit when you flush them, and a gift certificate to "Alloy" magazine. Lisa Grimmer – a Marge Simpson hat that stays on your head, and being the curly haired one in the walk back from the concert. Luci Johnson – a lifetime supply of milk with cookies, and all the "got milk" posters. Susan Kenderdine – many marker board markers. Christine Pizzo – a Stradivarius violin. Andrea Mumm- the airplane on top of Anderson, "You know who!" (don't kill me!) and 10 new model airplanes.

Heidi Kreamer- last will and testament: Lila- Bander, moving next door to the James Wong Room, pink underwear in the laundry room, being from the city (cool and unsheltered), cholesterol in my hair, I'm leaving you Diana's concert clothing, a pad so you can continue being a fire hazard, poisoned chicken in Chinese food, mints so you can have your daily 3 packages a day, goldfish, mail, hair spray so you can die, cards, and red and green LaLaLashes for your hair, oh and I forgot lots of cereal, and suitcases for Michigan. Diana Owens- Diano, with a reputation of sweetest girl at camp, a reliable and trustworthy listener, I'm leaving you buttons in case your ones fall off the navy blue dress. Diana Perlson- my sister, straightforward and honest, you get safety pins for if your pants fall off you like they did me and all your clothes returned. Laura- you get what you always wanted, black eye liner, a black skirt, a neck ring, and silver body glitter. Sherry- famous singer, you get a song written by me. Cassie- a Stradivarius violin for when you're famous, that picture of Adam back. Desiree- Des, you get glitter nail polish to decorate more spoons from Evan.

I Risa Goren, leave all the following to: Megan: ouck fff spats for life, my inflatable chair, and my garlic rat. Desiree: sparkles!!!, my Adidas, a bra (cleavage!), robos and Jnsets. Nick: Purple glasses and bongos so you can be the true "coffee house dude," air freshener, and more glow in the dark stairs. Erin A: all the pretty bra's and happy beans in the world. Matt C: My Blue Asphalts, some free time, and a promise to go to the infirmary next time I'm dying on a hill. Erin C: a slice of gum. Katie: you slussy! Grandma's tummy mint tea and another green goblet. Nathan: you get nothing, you mooch too much! My buddy the Middle Stall: I'll keep ya company next year! Marie: What else? My teddy bear! Seth: my tuner. James: milk to make more cappuccinos. Matt T: all the Gummy bears and Jolly ranchers you can fit in your pocket. The Narcissistic hole b: more "ignorant" people. Everyone I missed: more bra convos. Counselors: a clean room. CIT's: Real poser. 1st floor girls: more 7-lb bags of candy. Remember Des, we really are assets to the "ultimate" Frisbee world. I LOVE YOU ALL!!

I, Megan Nicole Flanagan, upon my departure from HCSMF&I, leave the following items to the following people: Risa Goren: pillows, blankets, and tea in the bathroom and plenty of yuck fou fights. Erin Austin: her hat, my hand to drag me around, and some hills to roll down. Erin Carvin: a slice of gum. Katie Bloomshield: lots and lots of tea and slutty clothes. Desiree Horst: reflections and curly hair. Nick Martino: Lysol, Goldfish, Dr. Pepper, and the bra quiz. Matt Carlozzi: an occasional hello and yet another Phish shirt. Ryan Olirch: "Hey, sup?" Seth Kisch: a backrub, an armrest and a "stone." Besty Williams: a high pitched "Betsy!" Steve Kaell: the money that I owe you. Rob Cox: the rest of my baby corn, Erin's hat, a Frisbee and the long Island accent. Lulu Rivera: your sketchbook. My counselors: a clean room. Sara Fazlulahi: convos with my boyfriend and your food. Nathan Olsen: I have nothing left to give you 'cause you mooched it all off of me already. Matt Thibault: my violin so you can practice. J.D. Gersen: discussions about the conducting staff. I, Jennifer Grey, leave… AS and LK- my friendship; VS- Mr. Bell; BH- pizza, concert and symphony orchestra, and all my love; RC- ensembles class; AB- a sleeping bag, thanks for being a great friend; JR- sick jokes; TH-W- mints; Jimmy- a rush; JM- concert and symphony orchestra, thanks for everything; GC- real Italian dressing; TF- conducting class, "Baby"; CS- Bacchae, vocal Jazz, Geno Carr; SB- CIT Sleepover; ML- movies, sleepover and tea; KL- church, festival orchestra and "GC"; NR- "Will" and long talks; TS- "Pervert boy," and platform shoes; AM- (my little sis) all my love and best wishes; To Dr. Z. and counselors especially MS, KD, NW, JS, thanks for everything!! Mr. McAvaney, Miss Person, Mr. Bunce, Ms. Shauger- thanks for your musical support throughout the years. And to my friends and family back home, especially Father Mike, Father Joe, Sister Mary Jo, Frances, AD, JD, ND, JF, Timmy, mom and dad, thanks for all your love and support, I love you all.

Since we are limited to even fewer words this year, I will not be leaving the usual inside joke items. There are too many of them. Instead, I would like to thank my friends for making my summer the best that it could be. So...thank you. Please stay the wonderful and caring people you are. Never stop making music and never stop laughing (especially Kristen Flower—so I can keep laughing). I don't know when I'll see you again, but until then, take good care. I wish you a lifetime of love and happiness! I'll miss you.

HaNa Chang (chang3@tcnj.edu)

Meredith and Hannah- triplet power! Virginia- earplugs and a blindfold. Kaitlin and Margaret- your own room. Dougie Fresh- my "weird looks," and a punch back. Evan- hips. Ajay- a bigger trumpet ego (yeah right). Biff- ogo bears.Lucy- a nice gesture from me. Eric the ability to keep Andy from your room. Joe C.- cheeks. Mike W.- another spying job. Rachel- a cleaner roommate. Jocelyn- a career as a step teacher. Lara and Rebecca- our shared hatred of patio time. Lindsay- my ex. Laura W.- my admiration. To all my CIT's- the power to know the color of each other's underwear. Kathy- intensity and dignity. Jae- a late dropping and a good sense of humor. Isaac- your meal card. To everyone who I love but could not think of anything to write, I'll miss you guys but I have to "go away."

I, Rachel Cama, leave to: Sam Boshneck- my lovely roommate, a lovely alarm clock, a schedule with no 9am class, my blue blanket and my towel, men of all sorts and luck in music. Katie Schorr- talks, a better boyfriend, I'll come visit you soon.... Laura Wenninger- yet, but you were only 14 years old! Sharon Beilik- my brother for your trio. Lots of love to Lisa D., Lisa G., Margaret, Jordanna, Ariel, Jamie, Susan, Tiffany, Meredith, Luci, Jenna, Laura, Mimi, Amanda, Cordelia, Gillian, and everybody that I knew.

The Will of Arielle Worona. "Kermit the frog" and stories of Alison's Leech's understand that deep inside we are all brats. Beth Cape always seems like our mother, with supervising and just being all-around great, we are very sure if not for her, there would be no other. Jessica Weisz comes with everything nice. Being on crutches, she believed she walked at a snail's pace. We always would have to assure her walking he spread out campus of Hartwick was not a race. Sam can really sing. Bottles of surge at night seemed to make a crazy bell in her head go ding. Young In has many inside jokes from Hartwick summers in the past. May this year's good times last and last. April an dI have made up millions of describing names. We have prepr, Shnaz, Chip, "Skeeta," "Skeetahwanto Be," but no one named James. Hartwick Music Camp has been so much fun! We had "Bring your cow to work day," but only one. Our friendships hav egrown, while here at camp, even if the bathroom floor is damp.

I, Cara, bequeath the following items to various freaky people of HCSMF&I. To my roommate Sarah. I ~~leave many yummy unforgettable talks, one almost scary piano fight, and a giant fly swatter.~~ To Megan I leave a bootilicious backrub and many madrigal moments with one very unwanted sight singer. To Katie I leave a meaningful movie and wak that shall not be forgotten To Jennifer I leave one shiny scizzors and many happy haircuts to come. To Jen I leave a cheeseless pizza and a "bootie" PomPom. Jimmy I love your hair! And to all the many happy people I love I will say: "I was all," Scottage, Vacate the Premise, Ew, Bootie. I love all the CIT's. I'll miss you guys.

Lila Nordstrom- Diana P.- No more yellow lights. Heidi- cholesterol for your hair. Laura- Marilyn Manson tickets. Annabel- this note- call me after the summer so that we can go (over). Nana- more of those cool sticker pictures. Michi- chinese food. Sharon- you know who. Diana O.- your new name: Diana Oboe. Kristen- a new trumpet so that you can give one to me. Molly- all the cnady that I stole from you on the last day (oops). Cassie: good tea (It's right there in the front). Jocelyn- Plenty of Dr. Pepper.

I, Annie Chen, leave the following to the following people. Katie Bloomshield- color changing balls, potatoes, a certificate to my massage parlor, late night chats, Joe-Bob, insult fights, guhs and kisses, giggle fits, "Thankie," my jeans, my sweetness, my curling iron, jolly rancher fights, haunting of our room by a certain "ghost," "Dammit," and our lasting friendship. Gabby K- record winning trip to the hospital, "adventures" down to ACA from the Health center, and awesome quartet practices. Laura W- hugs and kisses, and lasting friendship. Young-In- our friendship, talks from SPAC, and blonde jokes. Lindsay- hugs and kisses, chats, and my friendship. Courtney- demo tapes, Ani DiFranco, and your cute boyfriend. Glen Y- evil stares thru Festival Orchestra and Choir, and our friendship. Collin H- a "not lost" violin, and a better stand partner. Paul- quickness in getting anything you say. Conrad and Isaac- hugs and kisses, a call from you for my birthday, my awesome-ness, and me. 3rd floor girls- bonding night with ice cream. 3rd floor Smith Counselors and CIT's- my love, hugs and kisses. Steve M.- back rubs, me busting on you, sight singing with perfect pitch, and internet access. Tim F- my funky purses that look like cigarette cases and hugs and kisses. John- "Hi, Annie!" Katrina- our friendship, and cross dressing night. Catherine S- our across-the-country friendship. Anyone else I missed- memories of camp, friendship and watch out for fierce mosquitos.

Jane Dickson's will: to all that follow I leave a piece of my heart and a few special memories too... Holly Althouse—"Sheep May Safely Come" (a million times of great laughter), a huge thank you for all the great advice and understanding moments, remember the lake and the world we all experienced for just that one moment. Jeannine Schmelzkopf—"my second roommate," the memories of some great walks out and inside my room and the conversations and bonding moments we've shared – thank you! Remember the lake. Ajay Chaudray—the red box, clovers, the lake, a french horn, a pot belly, my vibrato, decaffeinated soda, a watch that broke down at 40 min. to 5 o'clock, a perfect laughing session that ends with a sigh. Evan Cobb—the lake, and rear ends. Sabrina Tropper—"Summertime," lunies and tunies, some fun "vent-talking," off the wall laughing fits, and table dancing. Paul Fleming—"I said Jazz-o, I said J-A-Z-Z, I said Du, I said Duke...," "did you eat your cheerios and bagels for breakfast Paul?" Brian and Amit—"A little more than a lot or a lot more than a little are the same because of the communative property," "If I'm going to be natural I might as well sit naked in the woods and hug trees and stuff...," slippery steps-thanks for your help guys! Virginia Stringel—adventures at the Holiday Inn. Erica Warner—thanks for all the times you've been there...I leave you a great big hug. Christina Ciraulo—thanks for all the backrubs, moral support, and food—I leave you another beanie baby. Samantha Boshnack—I leave you an..."oh no, I'm mad!" and a million "I'm better than you" trumpet conversions. Angela—I leave you an oreo-fest and a million hugs. Katie Lester—yesssssss. Susannah—my off white cardigan, a big hug, and a large tomatoe. Hugh—some great talks. Jocelyn, Tim, Hannah—big hugs and Meredith.

I, Debbie L. Harrison, do hereby declare that upon my departure, the following items and memories shall be left to the following people: Mark—a plateful of pudding, a clean shave and a cheery, tacet year. Andy Weber—a good fight any day of the week and a personalized "boy wonder" t-shirt. Erin—a boy who can admit you kicked his butt. 2nd floor VanEss counselors—all my love and affection and whatever's left of my food stash. Jen—a lifetime supply of spice drops, something sharp to throw out the window, and a reminder that boys are stupid. Mike—1,000 cups of coffee, a shoulder to lean on at the opera and a perfect girl who's almost as sweet as you. Jess—a Juicy Juice windowbox, a piece of my garbage wall, a super-power mosquito swatter 1600 and as many Dans as you can handle. Ashley-a rollaway cot under my bed, a room key that's permanently attached to your body, chinese banquet on pizza night and a dorky Mama's boy clarinet player. Ryan—a clear night full of stars (but no streetlights), a stack of peanut butter cookies, all my love, and a window that's always open... Evan—a sunglasses-wearing quintet that sounds like Liz's you-know-what...

I, Rachel (Dep) Herrmann, leave many things to many people. Most importantly, my khaki overall twin Nicole gets a huge "thanks" for making this summer frabdious in every way. I leave a great big "meow," an "I'm not satisfied," a shim, RENT, the "use," chinese dinners, beef, suntan, a change of clothes (twice), A&W Root Beer candies, "be still my heart," and everything else I forgot to her as well. To Krissy, a shim, hash, a final "I'm leaving now," a sip (not THE cherry coke). To Elana, a "you guys are being entirely too loud." To Meghan, a thanks for the clothes, a nap. To Chris, a pair of shoes, a sunrise. To Alex, amazing 2-hour talks, a back rub. To Molly, "would you light my candle?" To Stephanie, a snicker kudo bar, a "yeah yeah yeah yeah yeah" as I attempt to dance an "in bed" on your fortune. To Sheila, I love the blue mug, a balding Murphy. To my roommate Jen, "a bat!" (jump on the floor), an "I'm numb!," a puppet show, a louder alarm clock. To 1st session VanEss girls, a talk on the hill. Thanks for a million laughs. To all, a frabdious day! ☺ lots of happy times, "Hey good lookin!" Cara S.—booty, scootage, and she's all "Vacate the premise." Jen G.—Z's car wax, my nifty markers. Gabe C.—my incoherent sentences, a plane ticket to NH. Jimmy H.—a large IALAC card. Noah W.—all 8 Gershwin preludes. Tom HW.—all of my problems to listen to. Alex A.—a never-ending amount of happy thoughts. Dan B./Sheila C.—perfectoin of Midsummer Night's Dream. Ashley P.—envy of your dilemmas. Jess Z./Debbie—the "coolest room in the brothel!" award. Megan G.—our future year-long HCSMF&I. Bethany E.—a worth guy. Joanna S.—the perfect reed. Miriam—lifetime membership to the Curly Hair Club. Jeannine S.—your trashcan, a clean room. Dave I.—the best ever piano sightreading class. Joe D./Margaret/Laura/Meredith/Alex—the most interesting gothic black woodwind quintet. Andrew B.—our flawless duet sightreading skills. James R.—my normal-ness (your words, not mine). Steve—my Catholic school diploma. Andy—awe in your physics knowledge. Kavitha—my next cross-stitch. Brian C.—a gallon of "water." 2nd floor VanEss girls—Larry the Tomato.

I, Catherine Lachance, hereby leave many fond memories and great friends at HCSMF&I. To the following people I leave...Megan L.—a muzzle, 1 sad movie without me laughing. Sarah B.—WICKED

I, Amy Appel, leave the following: Anne—10 voicemails, Will Friedle's hair, rice, the marriage game, Autumn's wheat bread. Kathy—the boingie thing in the playground, my cheesy voicemail message (teehee). Joe—cuteness, haircuts, a certain cellist, a certain clarinetist, the "Amy looks" I supposedly give you at dinner at Autumn, RENT songs, "We look like an item." Dan—the Rossini triplets from hell, the waiter at Perkin's, bowling, a very lonely 2nd-to-last night off (ahem). Alex—complaining, whining, shaking, posing, etc. Emma—retardedness, the evil laugh. Nicole—endless thanks for your piccolo. Michelle—American Salute with oboes, my comfortable floor, velvet, "Brian," peaches. Sheila—the 3rd page of someone's orchestra music. Laura—secrets, non-sluttiness. Julie—matching high Gs on the piccolo, a nice trumpet tone. Jen—your RUM, my iron. Kavitha—ROOM!, your awesome nailpolish selection, your smelly cooler.

I, Sarah Zorrow, leave lots of stuff to some kick-arse people: Catherine S.—an elephant's bum and lots of gushy stories, a guy a minute, "James scares me." Elenor—walks, graham crackers, and my high stress level. Bethany—my so-called cuteness, dancing, clothing that doesn't work, random introducings, and boy trauma. Laura—Les Mis of course, starvation, "can you play this? Me niether," self-dorming, and powdered sugar. Sheila—top secret government information, bus rides, a room with a view, and eating up your cereal. Michelle—evil stand partners & the joy of kicking them. Debbie—"my name is Inigo Montoya; you killed my father, prepare to die." Meaghan—my back-breaking case, captain crunch is my hero, fruity cookies. Adam—"do they have ice cream in Trinidad?," hickey-hiding scarves. Phil—what else but swing dancing and good clothing. Karen—"why can't we play," our trio. Amit—Zion, money, and begging for a tuning note. Isaac—lack of practice, impossible pieces, a sarong, and a nap. Tom—"oh my God, it's Tom!," the Charleston. Lauren—you guessed it: a vibrator. Amy—squeaky notes, "should I practice?," trashy magazines. James—a sheep from Newbury Street, legos, something living (or once living), and something to counteract your hormones. To everyone—thanks for a great month, you all made it very special and I'll never forget all the fun, and how you were always there for me.

I, Ashley Piatek, leave the following items to my friends at HCSMF&I. To Debbie—Spice Drops, early morning runs, latenight talks (Ashley-room!), chinese food on pizza night, hugs, and lots of shirtless old guys! Jessica—paper roses, amazing abs. Andy Weber-Fred Mills (you can have him!). Ryan—wild turkeys. James—a girl (jk), an endless supply of nail polish, and of course, a will awaited trip to the third floor library. Logan—shooting stars, and endless concerts. Caroline—Balalska!!! Jackie—lots of buildings to wander through. Bethany—your very own happy meal toy to throw out the window. Jen—another Kermit for your collection, user-friendly irons, and a bra to sip in. Moira and Julie—a certain male with a two-syllable name...and a day without practicing! Tom—Bob Marley! The joy of homemade jeans, my beautiful singing, and good luck on your vira slap concerto! Mike—a well-awaited shoulder to sleep on, and Polish/Ukranian power! Meagan—magazine quizzes, and yes, a genuine interrupting cow. Katie—the skill to make homemade reeds (not that you don't have it already). Cecile—spanish music! Kavitha—user-friendly lamps. Jane—I will you the greatness of being a female trumpet player! (and my transposition cheat-sheet!). Steve—churches (jk). Andy Davis—Austin Powers, sarcasm. Sabrina—milk and cookies! Felicitas—hangers! Erin—Olga, the Russian Les. cleaning lady. Rob—(still my favorite concert escort) I leave you "mad harp skills" so you can get all the girls (as planned) and lots of hugs. Glen—Blue Danube, Piano Sightreading class, hugs. Lindsay—your very own Jazz saxophonist. Enjoy! To whomever else I forgot, feel free to write me a nasty letter...my apologies!!!!

I, Anne Santoro, bequeath the following items to the following people: To Kathy—Peanut Butter and Banana Sandwiches, Lettuce Highway, strange guys on bikes ("beep-beep"), Boy Meets World, and "Zing-a-Zing-a-Zoo." To Amy—brown rice and wheat bread, tofu, and messages on your voice mail because you're probably out practicing (tee-hee-hee). To Joe—Brahms 2, power tennis, and one final "you're cute." To Jeff ("Stud")—Glazinow's Fifth, Rach 2, "Gone With the Wind," and, of course, the field, the stars, and the rain. And finally, to Jessica, Kristin, Lisa, and Ha!Na? (my QRS sorority sisters)—spoons, a personal log, the window, Muddy Sneakers, Otter Pops, and...CHEEZ!

I Bethany Einschlag, of sound mind (cough!) and strong body (I survived six weeks of commons food!) hereby leave the following objects, memories, and wishes: to Alex F.-Budweiser frogs, fun stuff, bear hugs, my love and friendship. To Jane G. – lessons with Paul, good luck in all you do. To J.D. – harmonic analysis. To Jimmy – a hairbrush. To Ashley – the Samurai, a spare key. I, Jen Willis, leave the following things and memories when I depart from HCSMF&I: Cecile—my "chica," a run down the Oneonta "mountain," a positive thinker, my brown dress, and frequent visits! Kavitha—the best roommate one could ask for—a shatter-proof lamp, an endless night with a silent morning, and barber scissors. Ross—disco double stops and THE elephant ring. Debbie—all my wrappers, a spice drop shmorgasbord, a no-slip floor, and a chipper morning wakeup call. Nathan—gardenburger, pocket full of tootsie rolls and a bouquet of liliths. Ashley—a key to our fabulous room, a coconut hospitality dish, and all the loyal friends you deserve. Glen—a lifetime supply of my mints. Hannah and Evan—a leisurely nap in Slade. Karen and Emily—my solfege skills. Lara—a rockstop made from office supplies. Sam—an earplug holder and Stars & Stripes Forever. And, of course, 2nd floor VanEss—my hairbrush!

I, Courtney Biondo, upon my death, leave the following things to...Steve M.—Dave Matthews Band, a round table with no bottom to roll around in, ALL of my CDs (400 some), and the mother crow. John—a seat to the right of you in Anderson Theater. Arone—the ability to sing like Duncan Sheik (it's amazing).

Paul—an oatmeal raisin cookie with a bite out of it. Dan C.—"Evaporated" and "Selfless, Cold and Composed" by Ben Folds Five. Annie—a big hug for being so sweet! Dan J.—"Can't Touch This" by MC Hammer, a body massage, an empty ice cream cone to the ear, a big hug for all those times I was sad, a piggy back ride, a glass of vinegar (the trick is to breathe it in before you drink it), my blue tinted sunglasses, and "Hi, I'm Dan." Katrina (Kat)—goldfish crackers (not including the guys...oh wait, what guys?).

I, Katrina Poetzl, upon my death leave the following things to: Steve—higher learning for crows seminar (complete with the wing communication, flap flap!), my asleep arm pillow, backwards jacket, stolen cello with out of tune string, my bag of makeup, crash test dummies tape, soundtracks to all Disney movies, illegal Dr.Pepper bottles in Anderson Theater, your jnco khakis, too-hard backrubs-you give me goosebumps!, rolled up in the Dewar tables surrounded by broken ice cream cones, hey you really can hear through the "soundproof" rooms!, squirrel attacks (they really ARE evil). Dan—neeya pshusta, walks to the park tripping people and trying not to get tripped, practice room piano recitals, "meow," your trumpet skills with the concert programs, buff arms "from violin," mixing drinks at lunch, hair massages with nails. Glen—dance steps in the 3rd floor "dance room," your assistance in Steve's "you can't practice" plan, "yeah" while wiggling. John—a seat to the left of you in Anderson Theater and pepper. Annie—Hey hun! Many thoughts of our sweet 16 b-day parties, early morning sectionals...yum! Memories from last year, and plans for the upcoming dance. Also venomous retelling of ex-boyfriends. Catherine—talks of camp romances and disagreements. Megan—Lemonheads and sprints to breakfast (the SOUR lemonhead expression). Rachel—reminising about Youth Symphony experiences, curly hair boinging! Courtney—uhh...YOUR MOM!

I, Jordanna Rock-Garden, have eaten my last Commons crunchy veggie burger and made my final trip to Perella health center. I, being of chemically imbalanced mind and a far from perfect body, will the following extraneous objects to the following severely deranged people: Margaret- the list, Joni, an alarm clock that will wake you up, "doing laundry," geek camp. Lisa-"your mom," "just kidding," dah de-dah de-dah de, the hot guy in the khaki pants, glasses, crooked jeans seams. Areil: I have nothing to leave you, but lost of love and chillin' in the city. Jeanine: a room with red lighting, sating sheets, and dismembered barbies and GI-Joes on the floor. Dave R: a polar teck, a brick through your window, "definitely no," "cut glass," your Hi-5 that I stole and one of mine. Virginia: Oneonta freaks, PABW, Jimbo, spin cycle. Meredith: banana demonstrations. Rob: (my buddhist brother) following the dharma. Brian: "...sh*t," chillin' with me in Pough-town this year. Annabel: bum clothes, dance parties, ska and punk shows. Tim: Ricky and Dick, Dic 101, "oh my god, let's go to the mall." Karen: a glass bubble around you know who, passing notes during concerts, "yeah chinese food!" my slut dress, being grateful. James: queen slut/ rat boy. Isaac, the new Die Zauberfluten in the Agora, another party. Conrad: a pay phone to yourself. Mike: knife tricks, action movies, a nap on the bus. Mike and Dave S: corruption in the laundry room, Howard the Duck, a cool band name, Doug, I'm glad you had a nice summer, I hope it was worth sacrificing our friendship for. Tony: a stuffed sac, a pair of really big pants. Alex F: laundry sluts, minority jokes, underage campers, VD's. E-mail: FreaKable@aol.com

Being of somewhat sound mind and body I, Meredith Hoffman-Thompson, leave the following stuff to some pretty awesome people: Andrea—1000 goodnight hugs, my fan club, some Dr.Pepper. Jamie—"is this an A?," sing-a-longs. Tracy—a boyfriend. Carolyn & Erika—late night talks, boy problems. 4th floor girls 2nd session—The Bra Brigade. Bob—your sexy accent and wonderful drawings. Andrea, Jamie, Bob, Cordelia, Virginia, Gillian—the sexy pizza guy! Lisa G.—common clothing, guy problems or lack thereof. Lisa D.—two reoccuring #s, our own rooms, late wake-ups, empty root beer bottles, a smokin' moment. Margaret—the infamous list, depressing talks, a song always on repeat. Hannah—a bed to share, gemini power, awesome outfits, hundreds of kisses (of all sorts). Jocelyn—Dr. Pepper obsession, talking in my sleep, being a bed hog. Evan—happy quintets, the Queen, big hugs, All-State, all my love. Eric—8 ball corner pocket, hypocrites, "don't go there," bowling skills, staring contests in band. Tim—our prearranged marriage, Don stories. Sam—gemini power, self-esteem, a great guy. Ajay—Miss America, Jessie Spano, smelly feet. Erica Warner—my mistress, croaking at 8:30am, tea and honey, Moose! Paul F.—many dirty jokes. Laura—bassoon power, endless notes, monkey boy, cookie monster, my shoulder to cry on. Mark and Dan—"lips" and "t," my VIP seat at the pool, deep talks. Isaac—Alice in Wonderland, my flutter tonguing skills. Joe C.—countless backmassages, happiness. Joe D.—cake fights, obsessions, flirtatious looks. Greg—the uncanny resemblance of a muppet character. Doug E. Fresh and Mike W.—my sexy dresses. Katie B.—Oo, La, La, La, a never-ending back massage. Matt T.—many memories, all your admirers. Amit—my hair down, small children, milk. Jesse—awesome hair! Dan Block—a big cookie, 10 second back massages. Scott H.—the "book." Amanda—"I'm a fawn and dear me you're a human child." Ryan—yeah buddy! CITs—dancing under the stars, bowling , and cancun. This has been a memorable summer. I love each and every one of you and I will never forget it. Take the world by storm and follow your heart wherever it may take you.

Hartwick was really awesome this year!! Long live hairbrushes and may Ghetto Superstar ring throughout the halls of 2nd floor VanEss. I'll miss everybody that I met this summer because you were all awesome. I'm sorry that my counselors cannot yell at me to get in my room anymore, but it was fun while it lasted. To Gabie—I'll always remember the wonderful moments we had in class. To Susannah—You were an awesome counselor! I'll miss the goodnight visits. Say hi to Fernando. To Angela—I leave the wonderful memories of the hospital and "Stitch Day." To Cecile—I'm going to miss scaring you while you are practicing, but somehow I'll survive. Also, keep up the mad tennis skills and stop buying the same clothes as me! (jk). To Jen—You were the best roommate! I hope you remember the wonderful hair cut, my coke-stained towel, the reeking ice cooler, and all the nights I kept you up with my reading light. I still think it was only a scratch on my arm, but you can say what you want. Ha! Ha! Hope to see all of you sometime soon! Love always, Kavitha Ramaswamy.

The last will and testament of Erica Dietsche: It is said that all good things must sometime come to an end. Whether it be my stay at Hartwick and/or my very own life, I definitely have some things to leave to those truly important. To my roommate Katie Bloomshield—I think the thing you most need is one of those Star Trek beamer things. It is a wonder that my knees didn't completely give way being your roomate. Until we have the technology to do that, I leave you a great big hug and my super voice. Laura—How could I die without leaving you my hairspray and hairbrush? Hugs! My senior counselor—a bathroom in your own room so you don't discover me in the main one at 2am. Love ya Kelly! Natalie—I leave you a speech therapist and a really good nap. To Virginia—Anything cool and funky just like you! Jocelyn—A Wongshiptrooper (I will make one and send it to you) and hugs and hugs... Lisa—all my oyster crackers and an elastic waist long print skirt. Kaitlin—hugs! Sweetness! More sleep! My floor—I love you all. Me and Matt Damon forever! Hugs!

Last will and testament of Megan Lemley: To Sarah Berloe—my place as professional backrubber, a box of tissue for the next time she sees "Ghost." To Katie Lachance—"I'm so excited," a dark Meditteranean man with blue eyes. To Jenn Grey—my hair since she cut hers off, lots of sleep. To Cara Schweller—an awesome tan, lots of carbohydrates. To Virginia "Flower" Stringel—all the world's gorgeous men, rides on the dryer. To James O'Sullivan—the ability to remember what part he's singing, when to start walking, and on what foot all at the same time. A shooting star. To Geno Carr—memories of "Ooh La La." To JD—a career as a world renown conductor. To Gabe—my best friend who loves anybody who speaks Italian. To Mike VanBuren—my flute embouchure. To Josh Hauser—a baritone, not a euphonium, better luck with cars and posts. To Nate Casey—a non-wobbly, non-rising stand. To Meredith Hoffman-Thompson—my good taste in clothes, watches, and back rubs, the color orange. To Myriam Sollman—a large oak tree, my cousin, NRBs, GRBs, and VGRBs. To Matt Heath—a backrub. To Kelly Travis—Dusty Rhodes.

Karen Elizabeth Weber's Will:

Emily Serrotta—Mr.V's shirts!, SPIT!, and the trumpet player... Amanda—Nu Clear Fusion. Lara—N.C., our ensemble performance! To anyone else I may have forgotten, I'm sooo sorry. Once again, this summer was the best! All my love, and I hope to see you next year.

My will – Ilana Holmes...Thanks to all for giving me a great birthday. Max—I leave you my carefully watched steps, an episode of Sesame St., all my music, and the knowledge that my name is not Emma. Ed—my crayons, some lucky charms, a big thanks for playing mad well on the piano for me, eyebrow moving skills and some easily findable dress pants. Jesse—all of my shampoos to add to your already ample selection, some bright shirts. Mike—my clean mind (to balance with your dirty one), and a blank tape to record your cool accent on. Margaret—toothbrushes (the paint will eventually come off), a certain hot bother to massage your calf muscles, my bandaides, pee-pooh camp is fun! Emma—trouts, dinos, is that a lime on your forehead?, a box of cheezits (to replace the one I ate), T-I-double ga-er, I am not a Ilana, "like me, Ilana, and this girl, Ilana." Bitterness is cool. Ashley—some anti-insomniac medication, a new package of granola bars...a cell phone to pseudo-dump your boyfriend on so the guys can't harass you in the phone booth. Chelley—a practice room, thanks to your diagram I know the difference between windows and doors, I swear one more planet and I would have grabbed his hand. Jamie—a tissue to wipe your tears away, some stain remover, I swear the pen'll come out someday, my good-smelling fabric softener, vocal Jazz, and music history are fun, hot hot brother, dinosaurs are coming out of the sand, mandatory naptime. Becky—many hours of practicing, are we in a shoe-box or something, if someone doesn't hit that ball in the right direction soon, I'm going to go and do it myself, ohhh, was that a car?

I, Ashley Barber, leave to: Chelly: bumblebee tuna, thanks for being a great roommate, and all the starts in the sky (as long as they don't look scary in the dark). Emma: fishing line, trout bait, a large net (or the impolite burglars), the Chaminade, an exploding cat and two #2 pencils. Margaret: the ability to take a shower and NOT set off the fire alarm. Jamie: pizza tables, a diminishing 6. Llama: a canopy bed, a clothesline, and a bigger towel. Becky: lox; thanks for moral guidance. Maxmillion: hours in the laundry room blowing bubbles, quarters. Jesse: a wire hanger, the knowledge that you're just too cool for me. Ed: pizza. Mike: a fishing pole to go with the hat. Jane: an escalator (less risk). Andy: brain cells and a sunrise. James: a stepladder and a window so you can self-defenstrate, 12 ounces of milk for cappuccino. Julie: someone to wake you up at 5am. Dave: wonton soup. Marc: me hitting you in the head for no apparent reason, that REM song. Zachariah: mmmgkay, chalk and body guards, a girl who isn't girly, lots and lots of bubbles, and a spider on your bed.

I, Jessica Brill, being of debatably sound mind and body, leave the following people the following things: Rich: the wacko, hamster pee-sautee, cranberry juice, do you wanna TALK about this?, gerkiness, cow tipping, there is noting like a damm, water conservation, pages full of sorry's, pearly whites, I know you're not sorry, BLACK SOCKS, flapping ears, unfaithfullness, shut up-I don't wanna talk to you people anymore!, you know, if you were to come to camp...Augh! I Sara Fazlulahi declare this to be my final will to my Hartwick friends: to Amy, I leave late late late night talks about everything, ORGAANNNIC mints, waking up in the morning, ironing, and flute bashing. To Jessica, I leave a corner of my room, ironing, obcessions with two guys, our conducting class, and quaintness, and that sleepover. To Sheila I leave HALLELUJAH CHORUS and sitting in my room before lights out, the bathroom at the movies, and da boobs! To Richard I leave long talks about the study of cheese, sticking your foot in your mouth, Seinfeld dinners, cow tippin and grass in NJ> To Meghan I leave every funny conversation we've ever had about everything...Tom...hehe... To Tom I leave height wars and Mau. To Andrew B. I leave back messages – the greatest ones, and long talks about oboe and music. To Bethany I leave all the great memories that we all make in our lives. And to all my friends that are too numerous to say I leave to you the thought that even though we're not together and we may not see eachother again – the thought that the memories we've made together will last a lifetime.

The Will of Todd Marino
Beth – all the friends in the world; Lauren – a lifetime of hairstyling; To the guy I almost knocked over at SPAC – a years supply of plastic lawn chair; Amy – may she be blessed with bad intonation on piccalo; Rob – all the porn videos ever made; Adam – five years worth of cameras; Heather – a year's worth of dance lessons; Eric – a super soaker and a new alarm clock.

This is Jim Offenhartz. I would like to give Leaf Wettemann and Rima Fand my spiritualist minister Howard in Pittsburgh. I would like to leave Anthony Tangredi with a video of the scene in the improv class we never got to do where you would enter my house as a drunken person a me being the confident person. To Geno Carr I leave the yiddish song Abi Gissunt. To the second choir teacher I leave my tragus. To Roger Larocca I leave a lot of thankyous. Thanks for letting me get off campus and have Burger King for letting me use your CDs, etc. For the girl who sung "Over the Rainbow" I leave a good nights sleep. To Zac I leave a good time wherever you are and a list of good books. And finally to everyone, may you be happy with whatever you go into.

The Will of ALA Viglucci
While trying to think of all our jokeI discovered that they all revolved around my stupidity. So, I've concluded that it would be even more stupid to remind you of my stupidity. So, I'm dedicating this will to my friends, my enemies, my pals, my arch nemises, my fellow jerks, Dolores, to cow tipping, water conservation, to "Now I know why you want to stay for another two weeks," to cheese, cranberry juice, and hamsters, body fluids, to "Why are you standing so close to me," to whining and white socks, to five plates of food, popping quarters in the washing machines, to liking two people at once, sneaking into the girls dorm and "I can't believe he said that," to boxers, messy rooms, to the Wacker, to being a snot about being in Festival Band and sneaking into Festival Band and sneaking into Festival Orchestra, pearly whites and "There's nothing Like a Dame," to fake-a-rama's, back rubs, to third floor Yager, being left in the dark, to folding other peoples clothes, to being a swinger, to writing Sorry and Jerk letters, creatively, to being a tomatto and Bananas, everyone, this is what we all come to camp for.

I, Zac Stuart-Pontier, being of sound mind and body leave the following iterms to the following people. Casey – my nice blue sweater and an evil person. Steve – All the bagel chips he wants. Steve – All the bagel chips he wants. Logan – a scholarship to Harvard for a law degree and a Betty Boop comic PING! John – Black socks. Paul – a new S.C. hat and crutches. Alan – a new (non-smelling) jacket his own room without a roomate and his own fan to throw food in. Meredith – all the backrubs in the world. Erica – a new boyfriend to talk about all the time. Katie B. – Acting career I also hope all your letters (mail) will be late from now on. Just kidding. It's all good. Virginia – All the hugs that she wants forever. Dan – all the M&Ms to share with me, another refrigerator a chance to see all the concerts again. Katie S. – Good luck with acting. Good luck to everyone. See you next year.

I , Zach Bruce, leave the following people many meaningless inside jokes that not a whole lot of other people will find funny.

Jim - our sticky disgusting floor, open windows. DaveR - Evad Tropappar (of course), my soul (?) Paul - The beast from the East, three old ladies and the troll that mocks them (haha! Of course you don't remember! You've got Alzheimer's). Mark - mummkay, haha! Yoy fat b*! You made a crater!, flogging the dolphin, Cameron Diaz, "Kill all white man." Dan - "'Scuse me, do you know bob Cox?" and never finding Pizza Hut's number. Ryan - "My bad," "What's up, bro?" Emma - Combing your hair, crappy pigtails, your "waiting period," vacations to Ohio, "You look like a turtle." Margaret - My bodily gases in your general direction, the rest of my hair. Ashley - Constantly hitting me, pulling you up the hills of Hartwick, a lock of my hair, "Stop grabbing my buns!" Ilana - "Cool down, this music sucks:" writing your home in cool letters. James - Keeping it quiet. Arone - Another eleven inches. Annie - Those guitar lessons your never got. Lindsay - Bus rides from Saratoga, the wonderful "zipper scene."

being a foot taller than me. Hugh - Bzzzz, "Thank you sir, may I have another!" Matthias - The un-master class hand gestures.
And finally, to everyone I have ever spoken to—MMMGKAY!

Glen Young:
Mike - I am giving you the knowledge that you control the opposite sex, courage so that you can have mad confidence in your skat singing, and a 1-way plane ticket to Lyon, France. I give you friendship, and cousins forever! Katherine - I give you confidence in your mind, body, and actions. I give you a nice attitude, and I take away your fear of sharks in the Pacific Ocean. I give you friendship and good memories of the times that we have spent together. Katie - I give you height, to go with your older-looking body; the ability to not act constantly bitchy; and I give you luck. I give you the desire to visit me, and write me. Becca - I give you a good flute, and bookbag! I give you confidence in yourself, and I give you a trip out of New Jersey! I give you friendship and the ability to always write me. Deina - I give to you, the knowledge that you can get any man that you want; confidence in you skat singing; and I give you love! Haha, I also will give the promise that I will visit you in Lyon. Molly and Krissy - Two of my favorite people, I give you guys all of the memories of the good and bad times we've had together. I give you, Krissy—James, Paul, Molly. I give you, Molly—James, Paul, Krissy. Matt Heath - I give to you all of the fond memories that we have had over the past two years; the smell of refrigerator that is brand new, instead of a yogurt smell; all mighty suspenders; and the Oneonta Civic Arena. I give you friendship, and I give you the Whalers back! Jen - I give you good luck in your senior prom, and I give you a burn-safe iron. Steve - I leave you women, and I leave you on the third floor. Annie - I leave you the defense against my eyes. Lee - I leave you the smoking popes, and another session.

Rami Husseini:
Andrew Draginis - A part in the William Tell opera, the castrotti part! James Wong - A tuxedo: a martini—shaken, not stirred; a Walther PPK special issue. James O - A goal in soccer. Elizabeth the oboe player in my ensemble - Tropicana Reed juice by concentrate. Issac or Conrad - Plastic surgery for one of you. Dillon - A new frisbee. Paul Sulmer - A trombone concerto by Karel Husa. Bethany Einshlag - Another "My Rami" in Fairlawn. Chris Rarratto - Some water to wash off your butter fingers, and my Garfield book. Alex, Hancock - a batch of my aunt's cookies. Ajay - A clean room. George C. - A stuntman part for Drew Carrey. Alex C. - Smaller eyes. Phil T. - The whole Frank Sinatra collection. Steve M. - Some men's clothes. Jonathan L. - A Flight of the Bumble Bee arrangement for clatinet. Dan B. - Money to pay for private lessons. Tomoya - Nothing—you're perfect! Tom H-W - Counselorship. Meghan Galloway - Two 2's for A h. Tony - Growing pills. Mike VB - Shrinking pills. Everyone - my e-mail address: ramihuss@hotmail.com Please write!

I, Scott harrison, being of sound mind and body, would like to leave many things to many people. However, because the wills are due tomorrow, I do not wish to be constrained to two hundred words, and I am tired, so I will instead extend a blanket message to all. This summer was a blast and went by all too fast. I will miss all of you and look forward to seeing you again next summer. Thanks for the memories. P.S. I leave a dancing bear to stage crew.

I Thomas M. Harris-Warrick, being of reasonably sound mind and body, do bequeath the following to my compatriots:
To Virginia, I leave food, that she may never hunger again. To Katie B., I leave a perfect scone. To Katie L., I leave a pretty sky, and to her I dedicate my solo. To Katherine, a Gerald. To Sarah I leave a listing of the rules and my thanks. To Jordan, I leave an M. To Dave R. I leave my chair (because he's better than I). To my roommate Ajay I leave a broom. To Megan L. I leave James, or someone else. To James I leave two guys named Sven. To Andrew H. Braid I leave memories of time shared together, of the joy you brought me, my everlasting friendship, and my phone number. To Jane, I leave you candy corn and water. To all the rest of my friends, I leave you a special place in my heart, and my thoughts. I will always remember each of you.

We, the Dream Team Leave:
One Summer of Lunatic Fun
6 weeks of maniacal laughter (the kind that rarely comes from good clean fun) with each other at each other at the general public
in the general public
at the rest of you
Because you were there
Because we were here.
But don't let 'em fool you.
Part of being us is wishing we were still you.
How many counselors gloat about spacious single rooms, all the while secretly wishing we still had roomates?
And we would all gladly sacrifice a horde of gleaming Guest Artists for a decade or so of secret crushes and significant glances across the violin section.
Total Inventory:

12 weeks, novelty
36 weeks, hate
12 weeks, disillusionment
12 weeks, nostalgia/love and a precious few flashes of clarity-stat!

And suddenly it's the last night, 4 am and your face is aching with laughter, your eyes blurry with weird and unsanctioned mirth.
Even a festival needs to be fun.
Make time with a bulldozer and demand fun with a shotgun.
All our best from
Two boy sopranos, a semi-immigrant, 2 pseudo intellectuals and a pop icon.
Who could ask for a brighter set of glory years or a wilder cast of misfit cronies?
Spigots be damned.
May your joy flow like the mighty Susquehanna.
We, the dream team – Leave.
